

A handball classic

The Men's EHF Champions League Final is coming up on Sunday in Kiel. Those who follow men's club handball regularly know that these two teams have been dominating the European handball scene in the last couple of years.

This will be the third CL Final for Kiel in a row and also the opportunity to take revenge on Ciudad Real for the title that they snatched a year ago.

The two teams have been playing in top form throughout the season. They both seemed to be unbeatable and reached the CL Final with convincing performances.

There is no discussion, accordingly, that the two best teams in the world will meet again in the CL Final. A full house is guaranteed in Kiel. However, if you do not have a ticket, you can still watch the game live on ehfTV.com.

This game will be an all-time CL record, 20 TV channels will air it on four continents. Handball fans from the US or Africa will also get the chance to experience top quality handball.

The EHF Cup Final and the Cup Winners' Cup Final will also be live on ehfTV.com. Stay with us and watch the finals promising huge excitement and great entertainment.
